

SITERRA FOR CONSTRUCTION SERVICE PROVIDERS

Siterra is used extensively by mobile network operators, tower companies and service providers to manage project workflow and contractor interaction. Siterra helps the top telecommunications service providers manage the rollout of technology, the ongoing maintenance of sites and the construction of new infrastructure.

Siterra project management, enhanced with mobile task completion, allows field technicians to provide high-quality task completion data in real-time, keeping projects on-schedule and within budget. Through effective document management, business intelligence, and mobile field force enablement, service providers are equipped to understand and manage their business effectively.
